

January 2021 | Volume 26, Issue 1

Dear FJC Family,

Welcome to FJC's new look! We wanted you—as our donors, fiscally sponsored organizations and other accountholders and stakeholders at FJC—to be among the first to see our new look and feel.

We have been working hard over 2020 to fundamentally redesign our web site, logo, and publications to express FJC's dynamism, and to better showcase the imaginative, impactful work of our donors and partners. The new site is more than just a new look. It represents our commitment to deeper engagement with the work of the charitable sector, and to telling stories that inspire. As always, philanthropy at FJC starts with a blank page and an open mind. We're hopeful that you'll see something on the site that sparks an idea.

Please take a moment to tour the new site, and drop us a note with any feedback.

You'll notice the site continues to include a link to our donor portal, which is unchanged. You can continue to make grant recommendations, view account activity, download statements and receipt letters, just as you always have. We also will continue to provide the same level of responsiveness with access to our courteous and dedicated staff, who are available during business hours to work with you on anything that comes up.

In short, we are the same FJC as before. The new branding just emphasizes all the ways we can collaborate to amplify our work together. As we turn the corner into 2021, we will surely need this collaborative spirit as the nonprofit sector works through the post-pandemic recovery.

We look forward to working with you!

Sincerely,

Sam Marks, CEO

Time was running short for The Doe Fund. The organization was in contract to purchase a property in the Bronx for their new affordable housing development. When conversations with their acquisition lender fell through, The Doe Fund called FJC. "FJC was ready to provide financing almost quicker than we were ready to accept it," explains John McDonald, The Doe Fund's Chief Operating Officer. "Their speed and accessibility were a key factor in our ability to secure the site."

Over the summer, an e-commerce company went public, signaling a more robust and active phase of investor and FJC donor John Herzog's philanthropy.
