FJC Has a New Permanent Home

We are pleased to announce that FJC has found a new home. Please note our new address:

FJC – A Foundation of Philanthropic Funds
225 West 39th Street, 12th Floor
New York, NY 10018

We are looking forward to hosting our donors and partners in our new space! While our formal office warmings will happen in the new year, we welcome visitors. Please contact us for an appointment if you would like to stop by. For more information visit our New Office FAQ.

Ruth Messinger: A Philanthropic Legacy in Social Justice and Education (Blog)

As part of FJC's "Why I Give...and How" blog series, longtime donor Ruth Messinger reflects on how she and husband Andrew Lachman are planning for their philanthropic legacy. "My husband and I have led incredibly meaningful lives of public service, which have continued even as we have left our CEO jobs. For all of our accomplishments, we know the work of making a better world is never truly done."

Keeping Score: A Podcast Amplifies Student Voices

In Park Slope, Brooklyn, high school students at The John Jay Educational Campus are grappling with the decision to unite a school building divided by race, class, and opportunity, through sports. With help from student journalism nonprofit The Bell, a fiscally sponsored program at FJC, these students created a podcast called Keeping Score to tell this story to the wider public.

2022 Year-End Giving – A Conversation with FJC Board Member Neal Myerberg

As the end of the year approaches, FJC CEO Sam Marks interviewed FJC Board Member, Neal Myerberg, Principal at Myerberg Philanthropic Advisors, who consults with charitable organizations, foundations and philanthropists. “Regardless of what the market is doing, it’s always a good time to plan,” says Myerberg.
